

Dear 3rd graders and Families ,

We have come to the end of the school year with summer break starting. It was a pleasure to be able to teach and watch your child grow and progress every day. I'm so proud of how hard your child has worked especially with the transition into the distant learning process.

This packet is full of many different engaging and fun activities to review reading , writing and mathematics. These activities will be able to have your child review 3rd grade work and prepare for fourth grade in September. I strongly encourage you set aside some time for your child to work on the skills to ensure their continued progress during the summer.

Have a Wonderful Summer!

Ms. Wikinson

Summer Work

---

1. Complete the Summer Packet for to review 3rd grade and prepare for the 4th grade.

Each packet has math and reading materials to help each child's skills continue to grow over the summer and ready for September.

2. Students will complete 1 book report for the month of July and another for August.

(2 book reports total)

Reading packet

3. This packet is to help review reading comprehension, be able to use information from text to answer question. This will help the ability to retain important information from text and be able to summarize different aspects of what they read.

4. Have students when reading a story or book write down a list of words they don't understand or they don't know the definition of . After they create their list have them look up the definition of the word and write it down, this will help build their vocabulary skills.
